MONTHLY SUMMARY

The MGGF returned 0.9% in February. The Fund's long positions added 0.3%, shorts and hedging added 1.1%, while currency detracted -0.4%. Equities opened the month very strongly on the back of an excellent 4Q20 US reporting season but attention soon turned to the improving COVID picture. Enthusiasm around a strong economic recovery pushed interest rates higher and equities were pressured lower (particularly growth equities and so called "stay at home" stocks). Key contributors included High Performance Computing beneficiary Micron Technology and Digital payment winners, Mastercard and PayPal. The key detractors for the Fund were our Climate positions which retraced following recent strong performance. We maintain a positive view on equities, while acknowledging the potential for higher volatility as interest rates normalise.
